

Holding Collective Healing Processes

With Stephen Busby

Weds. 21 – Thurs. 22 February 2018 - Upper CC

Whenever we gather in higher consciousness then the potential for healing at the level of the collective arises. Using tools derived from systemic-constellation work, we can surface whatever tends to play out unconsciously through patterns and symptoms in the life of an individual and of a group. Hidden collective imprinting, often of trauma, is then more available to inquire into, and can nourish a group's higher purpose too.

This approach honours the interrelatedness and multidimensional nature of reality, where complex webs of interconnections that transcend time and place become apparent. We apply somatic principles, the practice of presence and awareness of subtle realms to explore where the next level of human potential is awaiting our expression.

The training will cover some basic principles underpinning systemic constellation work (with space for hands-on practice and dialogue around them), and will include cultivating systemic sensitivity (a transgenerational perspective) and working with subtle presence to surface collective imprinting (holding space in which inner healing movements may arise).

We will work for two full-days (mornings and afternoons), including - on the first day - an evening session too. The training is intended for anyone who works with other people in a leadership, supervisory or developmental capacity, or in the coaching, healing, therapeutic, counselling, organizational consulting, or caring and helping-professions.

Stephen Busby is a long-term community member. He has a healing and coaching practice and has promoted cultural transformation across public, private and non-profit sectors around the world, including through development programmes in next-level leadership in complex environments, in intercultural skills and conflict transformation (see www.stephenbusby.com).
